

SAFETY IN THE AIR

Begins with Quality Maintenance on the Ground

Photograph by JT Occhialini

Southwest is fond of saying, “without a heart, it’s just a machine.” If that’s true, we are the surgeons that keep the heart beating.

We are the Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association (AMFA). We represent aircraft maintenance technicians and related employees at Southwest Airlines. And, for almost four years we have been in negotiations and working without an amended contract.

Although we labor mostly in the background, our work ensures your safety in the air.

Southwest Airlines (NYSE: LUV) posted a record profit of $2.1 billion of $19.8 billion in revenue last year. But they still want us to make concessions in our contract.

Tell Southwest Execs to properly recognize the value of your safety and negotiate accordingly. Visit our website at www.amfanational.org for more information.

Knowledge - Skill - Integrity

Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association (AMFA)